Annual Student Art Show: Exhibit opens Friday

From the political to the whimsical, from ceramics to photography, the CCSU Student Art Exhibition opening this Friday covers the gamut of media and artistic expression.

Under the sponsorship of the CCSU Student Art Association, 30 students will display 58 pieces of art work in the annual exhibition occupying the Center for the Art's Weil Gallery January 17 through February 14. The show's opening reception, which is free and open to the public, is scheduled for Friday (Jan. 17) from 7 to 9 p.m. in Weil Gallery.

Featuring art by current CCSU students, the show was juried by Randy Flowers and includes oil paintings, prints, lithographs, photographs, ceramics and sculpture.

In Spring semester meeting:

President lauds faculty, staff

Looking back at accomplishments of the past year and praising what he called the "can do" attitude of the people at CCSU, President Robert R. Furgason told members of the campus community assembled Tuesday, Jan. 7, for the spring semester faculty meeting that this had been the "most exciting and rewarding year that I've ever spent in my life."

Furgason acknowledged those gathered, saying they were deserving of a lot of credit. "You have been the driving force for the progress (of the University during the past year) and I'd be hard pressed to sell what we have done to date without the good work you have done in the past."

"We are a campus on the move," Furgason said. "We've got momentum behind us and it is my intention to do everything possible to keep that momentum going at the highest rate possible."

Highlighting some of the accomplishments of the past year, Furgason noted the generation of both the academic plan as well as the physical plan last year, describing them as the "real, crowning accomplishments." He spoke of the tremendous achievement they represent as well as the arduous challenge they present for implementation.

Other attainments noted included the $30 million tuition bond authorization given by the Texas Legislature last year; legislative approval of $10 million for the Center for Environmental Studies and Services; and the budget amounts put in for special items.

Furgason noted that unanimous support had come on the tuition bond legislation (HB 2102) and this, coupled with other support from the Legislature, illustrated "some of the support for this University and its goals and objectives."

A record-setting gift of $500,000 to establish the Joslin Professorship in Accounting was also noted as an accomplishment of the past year. Furgason added that in addition to the professorship, a $60,000 contribution to the Joslin Scholarship Endowment had also been made by Virginia Joslin.

A $100,000 gift from Mary and Jeff Bell for the University Library automation project was also listed among the accomplishments of the year.

He noted that $15,000 additional scholarship dollars had been added to the Freshmen Endowed Scholarship Fund following the recent Barn Raisin' celebration sponsored by the Alumni Association, 4UCC and the Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce.

Furgason said he hoped that the new budget processes and procedures, initiated over the past year, will take some of the "mystery out of that important part of our operation." He assured those gathered that the next budget would be built "from the bottom up, offering every division an opportunity to put into the process those items deemed to be of major importance to them. The emerging priorities will See "Faculty meet," page 4.

New machines, new room

Computer labs expand

Microcomputer Services employees were back on a deserted campus before the end of the Christmas holiday busily rearranging computer classrooms to accommodate twenty-five new Club 386 DX microcomputers with VGA monitors allocated for student use.

The new machines have been installed in the Microcomputer Laboratory (MCL 135) adjacent to the Library, bringing the total number of microcomputers available to students to 87.

The staff also switched the Microcomputer Classroom formerly located in Corpus Christi Hall 108 (CCH 108) to CCH 101, putting the VAX computer lab in CCH 108. In addition, all computers in CCH 101 are now on the student network system.

The 62 computers now in the Microcomputer Lab include IBM PCs, AT&T PCs, Club 386 SXs and the 25 new Club 386 DX computers in addition to three Macintosh computers. Microcomputer Services is currently installing a new laser printer which will be connected to several of the DOS-based machines.

Later this semester, the Lab will receive delivery on a new laser printer for the Macintosh units. Both laser printers will be available for student use.

The older IBM units from MCL 135 were transferred to CCH 101 which now houses 30 microcomputers while the VAX lab has 20 terminals connected to a DEC VAX minicomputer.

Late registration, adds/drops continue to Jan. 29

Want to add a class, drop a class—or even register for the Spring 1992 semester? Students can still get classes or adjust their schedule through January 29.

Late Registration and Add/Drop for Spring 1992 classes begins today (Jan. 13) at the Registrar's Office in the Administration Building, running through the last Wednesday in January. Hours for late registration will be regular office hours: Mon., Wed., Thurs. from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Tues. from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Fri. from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

This week (Jan. 13-17), students may adjust their schedule without any special permission required, though there is a $5 late registration fee, and students will be assessed a $5 drop fee for each class they drop.

Between Jan. 21-29, however, CCSU students will need their college dean's approval to add or register for a class. Dropping a class, as always, requires the instructor's approval.

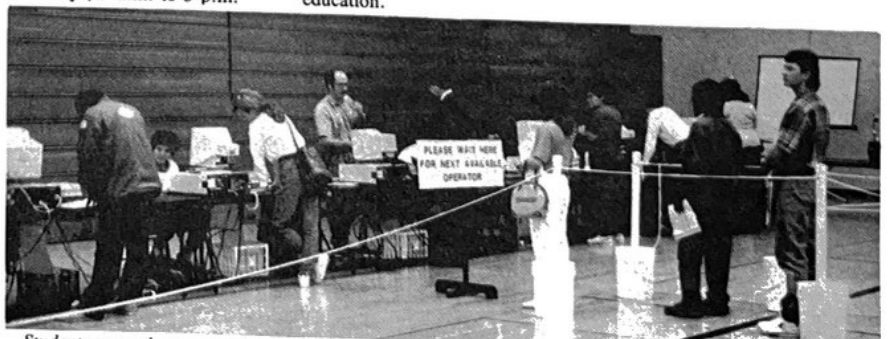

Education students also have two Saturday opportunities to register for specific classes. On January 18 and again on January 25, CCSU will begin two Saturday graduate education classes which will meet in University Library 218 on alternate Saturdays; students will be able to register on the first day of class, according to the College of Education Dean Dr. Robert Cox.

The first Saturday class, ED 585C "Professional Seminar in Integrating Computers into the Classroom," will start this week (Jan. 18) and will be held every other Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The second Saturday class, ED 585B "Professional Seminar in Cooperative Learning," begins January 25, meeting on alternating Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Both classes are new offerings for the College of Education and will be taught by Dr. Diana Bentschneider, assistant professor of education.

For more information about these classes call Dr. Cox at 994-2661 or Dr. Bentschneider at 994-2446.

Students queued up to register for Spring 1992 classes faced shorter lines during regular registration (Jan. 8 & 9) than they have in the past. Registration procedures have been redesigned to make the process quicker and easier for students. You can give your opinion on the process by completing the survey on page 4.

Norris to open spring season

CCSU's Distinguished Visitors in the Arts 1991-92 series continues January 27 at 8:15 p.m. in Warren Theatre when Gilmore Artist, pianist David Owen Norris, performs in concert. The event is free and open to the public.

Norris is the 1991 Irving S. Gilmore Artist, an honor accorded him after a two-year search on three continents among many of the world's finest pianists. According to judges, his was the most distinctive voice heard, the deepest—and most exciting—level of musician-ship they encountered.

The award, one of the most substantial in music and valued at approximately $250,000, will take Norris to 60 concert engagements in the U.S. and Europe, including appearances with the Chicago Symphony, New Orleans Symphony, National Orchestra of Belgium, and the National Philharmonic of Budapest as well as solo recitals at the Ravinia Festival, Kennedy Center, Royal Concert Hall (Glasgow) and Festival Estival (Paris).

The first to be named a Gilmore Artist, Norris did not actually know he was competing for the award, which was designed as a noncompetitive competition by the Gilmore Foundation. Seventy-five artists from around the world were quietly screened over a two-year period.

The final decision was made after a recital the pianist gave at Sarah Lawrence College early in 1991, a recital secretly arranged and paid for by the Gilmore Foundation.

"When we came up with this idea (for the Gilmore Artist), the three most attractive models were the Nobel Prize, the MacArthur grants and the Avery Fisher Award," said the Gilmore's artistic director David Pocock. "All of them keep the nominating and decision making quiet."

English-born Norris trained at Oxford (Organ Scholar, First Class Honors in Music, Halstead Leaving Scholarship in Composition). He is a professor and fellow at London's Royal Academy of Music and fellow of the Royal College of Organists.

He has made over 200 BBC radio broadcasts as pianist, fortepianist and harpsichordist and has appeared frequently on television in Germany, Austria and Holland.

Having performed widely in Europe, Norris brings to everything he plays profoundly interesting interpretations, an individual and mesmerizing voice, according to music critics. Pocock calls Norris "a truly unique, personal, special musical voice which deserves a much wider audience than he currently has. He's a musician's musician."

Theatre auditions set

CCSU's University Theatre will hold auditions for She Stoops to Conquer this Monday and Tuesday (Jan. 13-14) beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Wilson Studio Theatre.

She Stoops to Conquer is the comic English masterpiece of 1773 by Oliver Goldsmith. Subtitled "The Mistakes of a Night," the play provides audiences with an hilarious and stylish comedy of intrigue and misunderstanding.

Guest Director Ina Wilder Jensen will be looking for a large cast of males and females of varying ages.

Performance dates are February 27-29, March 1 and 5-8.

Begins January 29

U. Cinema offers classics

Wednesday means free movies on campus, courtesy of the University Cinema film series. This semester the series concentrates on "Film History Classics," beginning with a screening of The Birth of a Nation (1915, 127 min.) Jan. 29 in Warren Theatre at 7:30 p.m.

The German film, The Last Laugh (1924, 92 min.) which shows Feb. 5, was directed by F.W. Murnau.

On Feb. 12 the fare shifts from German to Russian with a viewing of Sergei Eisenstein's Potemkin (1925, 60 min.).

The following Wednesday, Feb. 19, it's back to American silent films with The General (1926, 84 min.), starring Buster Keaton, with Marion Mack and Glen Cavender. The musical Hallelujah! (1929, 100 min.), the first sound picture with an all-black cast, comes to the screen on Feb. 26.

On Mar. 4 make way for John Ford's The Duke starring in John Ford's Western Stagecoach (1939, 96 min.).

Orson Welles stars in his celebrated classic, Citizen Kane (1941, 119 min.) to be shown Mar. 11.

Skipping Mar. 18 (no film—Spring Break), University Cinema picks up again Mar. 25 with a presentation of the Italian film, Rome: Open City (1945, 103 min.).

For April Fools Day (Apr. 1), the campus can get on The Band Wagon (1953), featuring Fred Astaire, Cyd Charisse and Jack Buchanan, directed by Vincente Minnelli.

On Apr. 8 the fare is Jean-Luc Godard's Breathless (1959, 90 min.) which ranks as one of the major turning points in the history of cinema.

The Apr. 15 cinema offering is 8-1/2 (1963, 138 min.) by Italian director Federico Fellini. Winner of the best foreign film Oscar, it stars Marcello Mastroianni.

Bonnie and Clyde (1967, 111 min.) can be seen Apr. 22. With Warren Beatty and Faye Dunaway, the Oscar-winning motion picture was directed by Arthur Penn.

The series concludes Apr. 29 with Robert Altman's Nashville (1975, 159 min.).

University Cinema is free and open to the public.

Fall 1991 Dean's List includes 223 students

A total of 223 CCSU students made the Dean's List for the Fall 1991 semester. To qualify for this academic honor, these undergraduates not only had to be enrolled full time (minimum 12 semester hours), but had to complete the work with a 3.65 grade point average or better.

Library info. tours available

The CCSU Library has scheduled a series of tours and orientation sessions to acclimate students to the facilities, particularly some of the newer machines and research tools available for student use.

Each 30-minute tour will acquaint users with the various areas of the library, including the InfoTrac work station. InfoTrac is a computerized reference search program which indexes approximately 1100 general interest and scholarly publications; it is designed specifically to meet research needs of the academic library patron.

Education and nursing majors should particularly consider taking the tours, as they will include a demonstration of the new CD-ROM (compact disc) products available to those disciplines.

There are two new products available on CD-ROM: Company

Profiles, which as part of InfoTrack provides directory information on 100,000 U.S. companies, and Dissertation Abstracts, which provides thumbnail descriptions of all doctoral dissertations written in the U.S. over a given period.

Sessions consist of an introduction to research resources followed by a tour. Call Tom Amoscatto at 994-2608 for tour schedules.

U. Police adds officers

All three additions to the University Police graduated from the Del Mar Regional Academy on November 20, 1991 and have passed the mandatory state exam administered through the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officers Standards and Education.

Prior to joining the campus police force, Conner worked as a security guard at Memorial Medical Center, a position he retained immediately following the receipt of his honorable discharge from the U.S. Army. The Lawton, Oklahoma native has been in the Corpus Christi area for about a year.

"Bubba," as Pless is known on campus, graduated second in his class at the Academy and earned a Revolver Master award by shooting a proficiency rating of 100 percent at the firing range. He has been employed as a dispatcher/secretary with University Police since April 1991 and was promoted to police officer due to an expressed interest in a career in law enforcement. A graduate of Lubbock Christian College with a B.A., "Bubba" plans to enroll in the MPA program at CCSU.

Viera was the only female cadet at the Academy in a class of 28. New to law enforcement work, she says she looks forward to its rewards and challenges. Viera is a native of Portland, graduating from Gregory-Portland High School before attending Del Mar College. She is currently working on a degree in criminal justice.

Student Government

The first spring semester meeting of the CCSU Student Senate is scheduled for today (Jan. 13) at noon in Glasscock Memorial Student Center Conference Room 2 (GMSC 2). On the agenda is the time line for Spring 1992 Student Government elections which will be held to fill Senate vacancies. Student Senate meetings are open to the entire student body.

Student

Accounting Society

The Student Accounting Society (SAS) will have its "Rush Party" this Friday (Feb. 17) at 7:30 p.m. at Charlie's Restaurant, located under the JFK Causeway. All business majors are welcome.

SAS officers for Spring 1992 are: Jon Bibb, president; Deborah Hays, vice president; Cris Arizmendez, treasurer; Laila Bechara, secretary; Carla Frank, Belinda Vera and Sharon Montez, publicity. Dr. Cheryl Hein is the faculty sponsor.

SAS/Delta Sigma Pi

The Student Accounting Society in conjunction with Delta Sigma Pi will have a "Meet the Faculty Luncheon" Jan. 21 at 12:30 p.m. in GMSC 2. Both organizations welcome all business majors and encourage membership enrollment.

Beta Beta Beta

CCSU students have recently organized a local chapter of the national biology organization Beta Beta Beta. With approximately 15 members currently, the club's projects include creation of a Ward Island Field Guide under the direction of faculty sponsor Dr. Graham Hickman. BBB meetings are projected to be held the first Wednesday day of each month at 12:15 p.m. in the Center for the Sciences (CS) 103.

Student Reading Council

The International Reading Association has granted a charter to the recently formed CCSU Student Reading Council (SRC). One purpose of the Council is to promote reading and literacy. Membership is open to all CCSU students, alumni, faculty and staff. Watch the campus bulletin boards for an announcement of the time and place of the January meeting. For more information on the SRC, contact Dr. Helen Gill (994-2450) or Sharrell Eads (852-8594).

Intro to DOS

CCSU computer laboratory assistants, under the direction of CS Lab Supervisor Kathryn Donohue, are offering eleven free DOS introduction classes over the next two weeks. While computer science students are given priority in scheduling, the free "Intro to DOS" classes are open to all CCSU students.

Each class runs approximately one hour and fifteen minutes and provides a basic introduction to computers, along with DOS commands and instruction on use of the computer network system. The schedule is as follows:

Jan. 17	10 a.m.	MCL 135
Jan. 18	1 p.m.	MCL 135
Jan. 19	2 p.m.	MCL 135
Jan. 21	2 p.m.	MCL 135
Jan. 21	7 p.m.	CCH 101
Jan. 22	8 a.m.	MCL 135
Jan. 22	2 p.m.	MCL 135
Jan. 22	7 p.m.	CCH 101
Jan. 23	4 p.m.	MCL 135
Jan. 25	1 p.m.	MCL 135
Jan. 26	5 p.m.	MCL 135

UCSS

The University Committee on Student Services will hold its first meeting of the spring semester Jan. 14 at 12:15 p.m. in GMSC 2.

Micro-Media Log

will be held in MCL 135.

CMS Commands

Jan. 22, 3:30-4:30 p.m.
Jan. 23, 2-3 p.m.

This class covers a discussion of the mainframe operating system and becoming a BitNet user.

Prerequisite: A VM UserID. If you need a UserID, please call the Computer Center at extension 693.

BitNet—Part 1

Jan. 28, 2-3:30 p.m.

This class is recommended for computer users who wish to communicate with colleagues within and outside the university.
Prerequisite: "CMS Commands"

BitNet—Part 2

Jan. 29, 2-3:30 p.m.

This class is a continuation of "BitNet Part 1."

Prerequisites: "CMS Commands" and "BitNet Part 1."

BitNet—Part 3

Jan. 30, 2-3:30 p.m.

This class is a continuation of "BitNet Part 2." Prerequisites: "CMS Commands" and "BitNet Part 1 and 2."

Romero named Jan. Physical Plant EOM

Zaragoza Romero has been selected the first Employee of the Month for 1992 by the Physical Plant Department. He has worked as a carpenter for CCSU since 1983.

"Mr. Romero is a timely employee whose eagerness to learn new skills and willingness to help his fellow employees has been an asset to the Physical Plant Department," said Agatha Koch, interim assistant director. "Because of these special qualities, we are proud to select him for this honor."

According to his supervisors, Romero has a strong association with his church which is reflected in the daily performance of his work.

"On several occasions, Zaragoza has been recognized for his dedication to both students and the University faculty," observed Interim Director of Physical Plant George Antone.

"In the past year he traveled to Brazil to help build a chapel for a missionary group sponsored by his church. As a leader in his church's youth program, Royal Ambassadors, Zaragoza exhibits the role model many of our children need today."

How was it for you?

With over 2700 students early registering for the Spring 1992 semester, regular registration (held Jan. 8-9) seemed to run smoother with shorter lines greeting students. The registration process at CCSU has undergone several changes in the last few years, changes designed to improve the process and make it better for all students.

At 'Model for Future' symposium Levine praises CCSU's plans

Experts from various areas of education converged on CCSU to review a duo of planning documents designed to address the conversion of CCSU from an upper-level institution to a comprehensive four-year university in the year 1994.

Entitled "CCSU: A Model for the Future," the December 13, 1991 symposium reviewed the recommendations of CCSU's 1991 Academic Plan and Campus Master Plan, 1991-2010.

The panel featured (in order, photo right) Dr. Tito Guerrero, CCSU provost and vice president for academic affairs as moderator; CCSU President Dr. Robert R. Furgason, relating the University's view and vision; Dr. Arthur Levine, chair of the Institute for Educational Management at Harvard University's Graduate School of Education, and co-editor of Change magazine, giving national perspective on educational issues and development; Raul B. Fernandez, regent of The Texas A&M University System, addressing the future of CCSU from public expectation; and Deputy Commissioner Dr. Don W. Brown, presenting the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board perspective.

"I have been talking about what you are doing here all over the country," revealed Levine, adding that Eastern Michigan University has adopted and Colorado College is looking at adopting the planning model developed by CCSU over the past two years.

"Nationally, higher education is moving into uncertainty; it is confused about its direction as an enterprise," said Levine. "Meanwhile, CCSU identifies three themes: regional focus, urban issues and coastal issues. These are three of the major issues facing the nation and your university is structuring itself to address those issues. Amazing!"

Levine also commended the University's teaching focus and the development of a triad of freshmen classes, which along with a faculty master learner, will help address the issue of academic integration among various disciplines.

Spring Fest set Jan. 28, 29

The University Committee on Student Services will host Spring Fest 1992 on Jan. 28 and 29. The "welcome back to campus" social will be held in Glasscock Memorial Student Center Lounge (GMSC) between 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. on both days with evening hours from 6 to 7 p.m.

The mix-and-mingle social features free refreshments in addition to providing opportunities to meet members of various campus organizations and discover what kind of activities and/or services are available to students. Members of campus clubs will be manning information tables on their organizations. All recognized campus organizations are welcome to set up informational/recruitment booths.

Clubs intending to participate should notify Sara Winston, director of Student Life, by Jan. 23 to reserve a table. Student Life will provide a table, chairs and sign for each registered organization.

CCSU has over 30 recognized student organizations ranging from discipline-oriented clubs like the Student Accounting Society, Criminal Justice Association, Psychology Club, Science Club and Delta Sigma Pi to special interest groups like the Committee for Environmental Action on Campus, SCU-BA Club and the CCSU Student Reading Council. The campus also has several active honor societies including Psi Chi, Phi Theta Kappa Alumni and the newly organized Alpha Chi and Alpha Kappa Delta.

Students are invited to "drop by" the GMSC Lounge to munch, mix and mingle at Spring Fest 1992 before, between or after classes as their schedule allows.

Intramurals Roundup

Registration for a variety of Intramural activities kicks off during the next two weeks. Check the listing below for schedules. Field House hours: Weekdays 8 a.m.-10 p.m., weekends 9 a.m.-8 p.m. until further notice.

5 on 5 Basketball League

Registration runs Jan. 13-21 with play beginning the week of Jan. 27. Games will be scheduled 3-5 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. depending on league enrollment. Men and Women division play available. Teams will compete with Del Mar College teams. The Men's division will be split into a competitive and a recreational league.

Aerobics I (Low Impact)

Registration for the first seven-week aerobics class runs Jan. 20-27. Classes will be held each Mon. and Wed. between Jan. 27 and March 11 from 5:15 to 6:15 p.m. in the Field House. Aerobics I is free to all students. Faculty and staff can pay a $30 registration fee to participate. All participants must register through the Intramural Office.

Drop In Volleyball

Drop In Volleyball begins Thursday Jan. 16 and will continue each Thursday in the Field House from 7 to 9 p.m. Impromptu play with no registration needed.

Noonwalkers

Noonwalkers begins today (Jan. 13) continuing each Mon., Wed., and Fri. through April 19. The entire campus community is invited to lace up their athletic shoes and gather in front of the Field House at 12:15 p.m. for a trek around campus.

Safety meet to feature rabies discussion

Rabies has been a hot topic among animal control specialists in South Texas for the past two years, faced as they have been with a spreading outbreak of the potentially deadly disease.

This Tuesday (Jan. 14), rabies becomes the hot topic on the CCSU campus when guest speaker Jeff Beynon, director of Animal Control for the City of Corpus Christi, addresses the January safety meeting of the University Police at 4 p.m. in Corpus Christi Hall Room 117. The lecture is free and open to all students, faculty and staff.

Beynon, a CCSU alumni who graduated with a B.S. in biology in 1979, will discuss the disease itself, some of the varied symptoms exhibited by rabid animals, how animals are infected and which animals can and have been infected as well as what is occurring currently in South Texas with respect to the rabies outbreak.

In a Jan. 5 Corpus Christi Caller Times article, the Texas Department of Health was quoted as documenting a record number of cases of rabid animals during 1991, with almost 80 percent of the reported 85 animals being wild dogs or coyotes. The Coastal Bend was included in the 26-county region.

"The possibility of sighting predatory animals during January and February is increased since their prey hibernate and they scavenge on human disposal," said University Police Chief S. Kent Butler.

Faculty meet, reflect those delineated by our academic plan because that is what makes an academic plan alive and well and meaningful."

He referenced several "lingering problems" on campus including salaries which he described as "lousy," pledging to be "very vocal" (about the salary structure) during the legislative process, "not only for faculty but for the entire staff of the institution."

Furgason introduced the new executive vice president for finance and administration, C. Ray Hayes. Other introductions included Dolly Garza, new director of the Office of Student Financial Assistance; and Emma Simmons, new acquisitions librarian at the University Library.
