A Chorus Line opens

CCSU's University Theatre opens the award-winning and longest-running Broadway musical, A Chorus Line, this Thursday (Nov. 14) at 8 p.m. for an eight performance run in Warren Theatre, Center for the Arts.

A Chorus Line is a celebration of those unsung performers of the American musical theatre—the chorus dancers. The play takes the audience through the final grueling auditions for a new Broadway musical at which time the hopes, dreams and past lives of these performers are unravelled.

With lively and poignant songs, rhythmic and stylish dances and a humorous and moving book, A Chorus Line epitomizes the best that musical theatre can offer.

Written by Michael Bennett, James Kirkwood, Nicholas Dante, Marvin Hamlisch and Edward Kleban, the CCSU production is directed by James W. Carlsen with music direction by Daniel Steenken and choreography by Kim LaRue Watts.

A Chorus Line runs Nov. 14-17 and Nov. 21-24. Thursday—Saturday performances begin at 8 p.m.; Sunday matinees at 2 p.m.

General admission is $5; phone reservations can be made by calling the Box Office at 991-6931. The Box Office opens for evening performances at 6:30 p.m. and at 12:30 p.m. for matinees. No one will be seated after the performance begins.

Advanced tickets may be purchased in the Center for the Arts Office (CA 107) during regular office hours. All CCSU students, faculty and staff may get one free ticket with the presentation of a current I.D. card.

In the cast are Barry Johnson as Zach, Jerry Ortega as Larry, Geri Elliff as Cassie, Judy Jones as Sheila, Karen J. Cohn as Val, Carmen Wiley-Salas as Diana, Darla Reid as Judy, Karen Kinney as Kristine, Jan Schmidt as Maggie, Thea Benson as Bebe, Rebecca Rios as Connie, Marletta Burnett as Vicki, Monica De Los Santos as Tricia, Michael Swain as Mike, Bobby Martinez as Richie, John Paul Salinas as Don, Victor O. Salinas as Paul, Trey Mikolasky as Mark, Wesley G. Hart as Greg, David Estrada as Bobby, Jeffrey M. Oldham as Al and Bill Murphy as Roy.

Long lines, closed classes—the scourges of registration. CCSU students, however, can avoid both by participating in next week's (Nov. 18-22) early registration for Spring 1992, according to a letter sent out to students this week.

The personalized early registration letter includes each student's registration date and time, any "holds" placed by campus offices and detailed instructions on how to take advantage of early registration. The letter was generated by a thirty-member Registration Task Force which reviewed the registration processes (early, regular and late) and made recommendations to CCSU President Robert Furgason with the hopes of streamlining registration and eliminating potential problems.

The first step in early registration is to pick up a Class Scheduling Form (CSF) at the Registrar's Office in the Administration Building. CSFs are available beginning today (Nov. 11). The Spring 1992 Schedule is also available as of Nov. 11 throughout the campus.

The next step is to clear all

"holds" by contacting the offices that placed them. Holds are printed in the upper right corner of a student's CSF, as well as on their registration letter. For example, if a student's CSF shows "Holds: ADMISSIONS," they should check with the Office of Admissions to determine the nature of the hold and how to clear it.

Before completing the CSF, students are encouraged to seek advisement in selecting courses by setting up appointments with faculty members or degree coordinators in their respective colleges.

After ascertaining the classes needed and filling out the CSF, students can register in their college dean's offices. Each student's CSF has an individual registration date and time printed in the upper right-hand corner. Students can register ON OR AFTER the time noted on their CSF, but not before.

Throughout the week of Nov. 18-22, the campus offices involved in early registration will have extended hours: 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on Friday.

Students who early register will receive their bill by mail, payment of which must be received by the Business Office on or before December 4. See "Early registration," page 4.

President presents update: Fac. Sen. tackles issues

Faculty Senators heard the good news and the bad news from University President Robert Furgason at their November 4 meeting before tackling a lengthy agenda that covered several proposals and policy issues.

The good news, Furgason said, is that the work done by the faculty and staff during the last year or two in terms of University growth and development planning is really beginning to pay off. The bad news is that the good news out of Austin isn't good enough.

"The faculty has done a lot of work on the academic plan," Furgason said, calling it a "dynamic plan," and saying it is work that will be part of the budget request for next year. Furgason added, however, that the historical picture of university spending does not match the budget picture authorized this year by the legislature.

Citing an annual net deficit of $1.5 million, Furgason laid out four strategies before Faculty Senate members: do nothing and rely on special item appropriation, reduce the operating budget to fit the income, grow (enrollment) out of the problem, or a combination of the options.

Stressing a strategy of enrollment growth, Furgason said that if full-time student equivalents could be increased by 250 or 300 students, or credit hour generation in-See "Faculty Senate," page 4.

Carrillo, Carpenter take administrative positions

Two familiar faces are in new places at the University this semester. Dr. Leo Carrillo and Dr. John Carpenter, both charter faculty members at CCSU, are in new roles this semester as assistant deans in their respective colleges.

Carrillo, a professor of Hispanic studies and CCSU faculty member since 1973, is the new graduate student liaison in Arts & Humanities. The position was formerly occupied by Dr. Paul Orser, now serving as Associate Vice President for Institutional Research.

In addition to assuming this new assistant dean's role, Carrillo will be teaching three courses this semester: Hispanic American Folk Medicine, Mexican American Themes, and Spanish and Mexican Folk Songs.

Carrillo says his main tasks in his new assistant dean role will be advising new graduate students coming into programs at the University, working on the College's section of the catalog, and facilitating the registration process for Arts and Humanities students.

"We have our new program in public administration in which we are seeing a lot of interest being shown," Carrillo said. Other grad-See "Assistant Deans," page 3.

Chancellor to attend barn raisin'

CCSU friends and supporters will be gathering on campus Thursday (Nov. 14) for a barn raisin' good-time benefit, and to hear from the new Chancellor of The Texas A&M University System, Dr. Herbert Richardson.

Richardson will be the special guest speaker at the fourth annual CCSU fundraiser sponsored by the Alumni Association, the Chamber of Commerce and 4UCC.

A "Shootin' the Breeze" silent auction will kick things off at 6 p.m. with dinner to follow at 7:30. An extensive inventory of silent auction gifts have been lined up including two round-trip tickets to any destination serviced by Delta in the United States; a 26-inch color television with remote control donated by Central Power and Light Co.; a 19-inch color television donated by the University Bookstore; a special package that includes four tickets to the Texas A&M-University of

Dr. Herbert Richardson

Texas football game and the private, pre-game buffet reception; a portrait by renowned artist, Peter Weil; a two-hour cocktail party for 50 guests, sponsored by Brad Lomax and Water Street Oyster Bar; and two $250 airtime gift certificates from Cellular One.

The Mustangs, a local charitable organization, will cater a barbecue dinner with all the trimmings, and entertainment will include a country/western band and cloggers.

The evening's program is slated for 8:30 with several special awards and announcements to be made. Reservations should be made through the CCSU Office of Institutional Advancement, at 994-2420. Tickets for the fundraiser are $35.

Estudiantina CCSU organizing

The halls will soon be alive with the sound of music—music of Spanish and Mexican origin, that is, when Dr. Leo Carrillo and his Estudiantina CCSU group get started next semester.

Envisioned as a "signature" group for the University, the vocal and instrumental ensemble will begin this spring to build a repertoire of Spanish and Mexican folk music with origins tracing back to medieval Spain. The for-credit course will be taught for the first time next semester by Carrillo.

"People are more familiar with mariachi's than this type group," Carrillo said. "Estudiantinas have a reputation for being roguish and playful. They traditionally sing love songs or cute songs that often have double meanings in the lyrics."

Instruments used in these groups include the guitar, bass, mandolin, bandurria, violin and laud. Students interested in the ensemble should talk to Carrillo about setting up an audition. Members do not have to be music majors, but should have either a vocal or instrumental background.

Carrillo said that exchanges of music and instruments is already being planned between the University and groups in Mexico.

Oso Bay workshops set

The works of 30 regional CCSU alumni will continue to grace the walls of Weil Gallery as the University's seventh annual Oso Bay Biennial art exhibition/conference entitled "Return to Ward Island—Alumni Show 1991" remains on view through December 5.

The exhibition presents recent works of alumni ranging from prints to oils to sculpture. In addition to the juried show, "Oso Bay Biennial VII" features three days of workshops and slide lectures this week by CCSU alumni Jacqueline "Jake" Elliott and Joann Terry (Nov. 12-14).

"Jake" Elliott's workshops focus on paper casting. Elliott received her BFA from CCSU in 1987 and her MA degree in art from the University of Dallas in 1989. She is presently working on her MFA in printmaking at the University of Dallas. Her primary interest is in making hand-made paper surfaces on which to print.

The papercasting workshops will be held in Center for the Arts 117 (CA 117), at 10 a.m. on Nov. 12, 13 and 14. In addition, Elliott will present a slide lecture at 3 p.m. on Nov. 12 in the Wilson Studio Theatre.

Joann Terry's workshops in printmaking will concentrate on lithograph techniques and will be held in CA 205 at 4 p.m. Nov. 12-14. Terry is scheduled to present her slide lecture at 3 p.m. on Nov. 13 in the Wilson Studio Theatre.

Terry is attending Arizona State University in Tempe, Arizona, pursuing an MFA degree in printmaking. She obtained her BFA from CCSU in 1988; she has participated in several exhibitions including the Texas State Sculpture Symposium in San Antonio.

The Oso Bay Biennial "Return to Ward Island—Alumni Show 1991" exhibition is free and open to the public. Exhibition hours are Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

'Say When' poster contest offers $20,000

Creativity could nab students a share of $20,000 when, for the third year, The Inter-Association Task Force and Anheuser-Busch will award that amount in scholarships in conjunction with the National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week. Thirty students from around the country will be recognized for their winning designs in the "Know When To Say When" poster competition. Scholarships will be awarded to undergraduates with the best poster ideas that promote a message of legal and personal responsibility in the consumption of alcohol. The competition, however, is not just for fine and applied art students. Drawing ability will not be a factor in the judging; it's the concept that counts! All entries must be received by Dec. 15, 1991. Official entry forms are available in the Student Life Office, Glasscock Memorial Student Center Room 130, or at the Office of Public Information, Administration 109. The grand prize scholarship for "Best Concept" is $5,000. There will be five runner-up scholarships of $1,000 each and twenty third-place scholarships of $500.

Russian faculty exchange explored

Professional Notes

Dr. Bob Bezdek, professor of political science, will be speaking to two political science classes at Texas A&I University Friday (Nov. 15). While on campus, he will also address a faculty forum. Later this month, Bezdek will also address a Phi Beta Kappa gathering at Bee County College.

University Police Chief Kent Butler reports that services available from his department can be accessed Monday—Thursday from 7 a.m. until 10:30 p.m. and on Fridays from 7 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. Jennifer Dietz has been added as secretary/dispatcher in the office.

With the wave of cool weather, some folks might be thinking ahead to the holiday season. Dr. Allan Kaplan, assistant professor of music, certainly is. For Kaplan, the holiday season isn't complete without tubas. He has already confirmed that Tuba Christmas is on again this year at noon on December 24th in the atrium of Corpus Christi National Bank.

Kaplan also recently performed in the TAIU Tuba-Euphonium Ensemble on the Kingsville campus.

Dr. Cheryl Hein, associate professor of accounting, has recently had two articles published that focus on the maquilador environment. Published in the October issue of the nationally syndicated CPA Journal, Hein co-authored "Maquiladoras: Should U.S. Companies Run For The Border?" with Neal Van Zante of TAIU.

Hein is also featured in the latest edition of the local Chamber Report with an article entitled, "Is a Maquiladora Operation For You?"

Communication professor Rick Rodrick can be heard one Sunday evening a month on KEDT-FM's new program, "Some Call It Folk." The weekly show airs from 9 until 11 p.m. and features contemporary and American folk music. "Clearly a labor of love, Rodrick utilizes his personal and extensive collection of folk music for programming.

Dr. James W. Carlsen, professor and director of University Theatre, performed in the Poet's Corner at this year's Bayfest. Sponsored by the Corpus Christi Literary Reading Series, Carlsen performed four selections: "Four Preludes on Playthings of the Wind" by Carl Sandburg; "somewhere i have never travelled" by e.e. cummings; "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock" by T.S. Eliot; and "Sarah Cynthia Sylvia Stout Would Not Take The Garbage Out" by Shel Silverstein.

Natasha Kelly has been appointed to the position of assistant manager at the University Bookstore, announces Victor Ruiz, Bookstore Manager. Natasha has been affiliated with the University since 1988. She graduated from Del Mar College in May of this year and is currently enrolled in the BBA program at CCSU.

Oscar Contreras is the Physical Plant Employee of the Month for November, 1991. Contreras, who has been employed with the University since May 11, 1977, is a heating and air conditioning mechanic. He maintains and repairs all HVAC equipment throughout the campus.

On call 24 hours a day, seven days a week, Contreras never hesitates to respond to emergency calls when necessary, according to Agatha Koch, Interim Assistant Director of Physical Plant. "Mr. Contreras is a very reliable and punctual employee and has accumulated well over 1,000 hours of sick, vacation, and compensatory time," Koch continued.

"We are very proud to select Mr. Contreras as the Employee of the Month because of his reliability, professionalism, and dedication to the University and Physical Plant area," said Interim Director George Antone.

Contreras enjoys walking, fishing and camping in his spare time.

Cinema in CCH this week

This Wednesday (Nov. 13) University Cinema presents two documentary films, Country Auction and Garlic Is As Good As Ten Mothers, in Corpus Christi Hall, Room 117 at 7:30 p.m. Next week (Nov. 20) the screening returns to Warren Theatre with An Acquired Taste, Current Events, and Drive-In Blues beginning at 7:30 p.m. All University Cinema presentations are free and open to the public.

Country Auction (1984, 56 min.) is a collaboration between Ben Levin, Jay Ruby, Bob Aibel and Chris Mucello where filmmakers and cultural anthropologists join forces to examine an estate auction. The resulting film serves both a social scientific and a documentary function.

Garlic Is As Good As Ten Mothers (1981, 30 min.) is director Les Blank's most gastronomically obsessive film portrait yet. An exhaustive, lip-smacking foray into the history, consumption, cultivation, and culinary and curative powers of garlic, the film lingers in the disparate kitchens of Chez Panisse and Flint's Bar-B-Que in Berkeley.

On November 20, University Cinema begins with An Acquired Taste (1982, 26 min.) which won director Ralph Arlyck a blue ribbon at the American Film Festival as well as first prize and silver awards at the San Francisco International Film Festival. As he turns 40, the filmmaker casts a wry look back at the school, work and media influences which have shaped his life (and all of our lives) through the past four decades.

Another Ralph Arlyck award-winning film, Current Events (1989, 56 min.) focuses on the news. Unspeakable things occur daily in the world, but for most of us, they are like electronic interferences on the screens of our personal lives. This lyrical, reflective film diary looks at a citizenry overwhelmed and benumbed by a ceaseless stream of media images. Current Events asks how a decent person can take the step from concern to action—how to be a "mensch" in the 20th Century. San Francisco's The Post Newspapers calls it "A deeply personal, funny and moving work..."

Drive-In Blues (1987, 30 min.) celebrates the once venerated drive-in movie theatre and laments its decline. Director Jan Krawitz has a blank white screen looming behind interviews as old-time theatre owners reminisce.

BESO

Dr. Javier Villarreal will speak on "La Musica Texana Como Vehiculo De Transmision Cultural" at the Nov. 23 meeting of BESO to be held at 10 a.m. in Faculty Center Conference Room A. Plans for the Christmas party will also be discussed.

CCSU Women's Group

Ann Furman Dunn with the Nueces County Health Department will speak on "AIDS and Women's Health Issues" this Thursday (Nov. 14) in Glasscock Memorial Student Center Conference Room 1 (GMSC 1) from 5:30 to 6:45 p.m. as guest speaker for the CCSU Women's Group. A recent addition to campus, the CCSU Women's Group, with faculty sponsor Dr. Robb Jackson, has been organized to provide support and encouragement for CCSU women, and to help in developing a sense of community. The group is open to students, faculty, staff and alumni. For more info, call Stephanie Crates at 853-0341 or 994-2707.

Psi Chi

"Family Therapy" will be the topic presented by guest speaker Dr. G. Kizerian at Tuesday's (Nov. 12) Psi Chi meeting. Anyone interested may attend the guest speaker portion of the meeting, which begins at 8:15 p.m. in GMSC Conference Room 2. The business portion of the meeting for Psi Chi members begins at 7:30 p.m.

Psychology Club

Rita DeShields, LPC, director of the Mariposa Counseling Center will speak on "Charting a Career in Counseling" at Wednesday's (Nov. 13) meeting of the Psychology Club to be held in GMSC 2 from 11:55 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Psychology Club has chosen Bethany House as their social service project. A list of needed items is posted on the door of Dr. Kathryn Hammes (FC 284); she will accept donated items in her office.

Student

Accounting Society

The Student Accounting Society's last meeting of the Fall semester, with election of new officers, will be Wednesday, Nov. 20, at 12:30 p.m. in the Faculty Center, Conference Room A.

Student Art Association

The Student Art Association is sponsoring a field trip to Houston this weekend (Nov. 16-17) to view the Rauschenberg Retrospective at the Menill Collection. SAA will also visit other museums and galleries with contemporary art. The trip is open to all CCSU students. See Norma Cantu in the CA 107, 994-2317, for more information.

TSEA

Dr. Robert Cox, dean of the College of Education, will be the guest speaker at Thursday's (Nov. 14) meeting of TSEA to be held in the Learning Resource Center (CCH 201) at 2 p.m. On Saturday, Nov. 2, five representatives from CCSU's Texas Student Education Association attended the TSEA District IV Convention in Edinburg: Patty Pittman, Linda Garcia, Rosa Martinez and Linda Ashby. Dr. Patricia Meyer and Dr. Diana Bendtschneider also attended the convention, with Bendtschneider giving a workshop on cooperative learning.

Student Government

Student Government will have an extra business meeting today (Nov. 11) at 12 noon in GMSC 2 to address proposed by-law changes. Regular meetings are the first and third Mondays of the month from 12 noon to 1 p.m. in GMSC 2. All Student Government meetings are open to the public.

Student Reminder

Media proficiency projects must be completed by Dec. 6 for all students planning to do student teaching in the Spring. The Learning Resource Center is located in Corpus Christi Hall 201. Hours are Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday from 8 a.m. to 12 noon, and Saturday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

University Bookstore

Nov. 11-17 is national children's book week. The University Bookstore has a sensational assortment of children's books sure to delight and entertain. Save 50% to 70% off publisher's original prices. Hurry in for the best selection. "Kids Who Read Succeed."

Students can now order "Diplomas of Gratitude," personalized honorary degrees which show gratitude to those supportive individuals (parents, husband, wife or friends) who helped with college. Samples are on display in the Bookstore. Allow two to three weeks for delivery. Students are advised to order their December graduation announcements now to avoid the last minute rush.

Faculty are reminded to get their remaining spring semester textbook orders to the Bookstore so students can get the top prices on their buybacks during finals.

Reminder: Beginning Nov. 25, refunds will not be given on books purchased within two weeks of final exams.

Pre-Law Society forms

An organizational meeting of the new CCSU Pre-Law Society was held Nov. 4 to adopt a constitution and establish goals for the organization. The Pre-Law Society is a new organization at CCSU, although the society was active on campus in the past. Dr. Robert Bezdek, professor of political science, will be the faculty advisor for the group.

The Corpus Christi Young Lawyers Association provided the impetus to re-organize the society when CCYLA President Melody H. Cooper, an associate with Sorrell, Anderson, Lehrman, Wanner and Thomas, perceived a need for the organization while manning an "Ask-A-Lawyer" table at the Law Fair held in September at CCSU.

Members of CCYLA will assist campus members in organizing the society and will provide speakers and information on becoming a lawyer, or what it is truly like being a lawyer. Libby Salem, an attorney with Wood, Burney, Cohn and Bradley, will be the CCYLA chairman for the CCSU Pre-Law Society project. Both Cooper and Salem are CCSU alumni.

Officers elected at the Nov. 4 meeting include: Araceli Fonseca, president; Mark Hasette, vice-president; Kendall Wilson, secretary; Richard Stradinger, treasurer; and Xiomata Polek, public relations chairman.

The next meeting of the Pre-Law Society will be held today, Nov. 11, in Glasscock Memorial Student Center Conference Room 2 at 6:30 p.m. All those interested are invited to attend.

Students visit maquiladora plant

CCSU students from Dr. Cheryl Hein's international accounting class and Laredo Jr. College students from Dr. Robert Hoover's marketing class traveled to Nuevo Laredo Oct. 19 to tour the La Mosa Ford maquiladora plant. Following a guided tour of the plant floor, students met with the company's chief accountants for an in-depth question and answer session. Pictured (front row, left to right): Tanya Nowlin, Jenny Myers, Liz Day, Dr. Cheryl Hein. (Back row): Dr. James Desremaux, Kay Boatman, Teresa Bryan, Irma Bell, Vic Ganem and Steve Brewer.

There are about 160 maquiladoras operating in Nuevo Laredo. The La Mosa Ford plant, built in 1987, produces catalytic converters, wheels, springs and radiator assemblies for Ford automobiles. Approximately 1,100 Mexican nationals are employed at the facility.

Prior to traveling to Nuevo Laredo, Hein's class met with Alicia Abdala of the Mexican Consulate on Oct. 10 to discuss maquiladoras and doing business in Mexico.

uate programs in the College of Arts & Humanities include the MAIS, an interdisciplinary program, as well as the master's in psychology. A master's in English is "in the oven, Carrillo said.

A native South Texan, Carrillo earned his BA, MA and Ph.D. at St. Louis University.

For Dr. John Carpenter, going into the Assistant Dean's office in the College of Business is like coming home. Carpenter, also a faculty member since 1973, started the MBA program in 1975 and served as its first assistant dean/graduate advisor.

"In our economy today, it is an employers' market," Carpenter commented. "The MBA provides an avenue for career advancement, or even a career change. The MBA degree makes students more marketable."

Carpenter sees his role as one of both leadership and guidance. "The MBA has certain requirements but within those requirements are some flexibilities. I intend to focus students on setting and achieving professional goals through our program. I intend to start them on a track that will help them meet their goals—a track that is acceptable anywhere in the U.S., but one that is geared to the individual's needs."

Like Carrillo, Carpenter will retain teaching duties in addition to his new administrative responsibilities. He will be teaching a course in entrepreneurship as well as small business management and a Small Business Institute course.

As assistant dean, he will also update catalog information for the College of Business Administration and work with new grad students.

New directions in the College of Business, according to Carpenter, include courses with a global focus, quality, ethical considerations of business and improved computer literacy.

Carpenter has a bachelor's degree from Southern Methodist University, a master's from West Texas State University, and a Ph.D. from Texas A&M University.

His appointment as dean officially begins in the spring semester, but students can find him in this new administrative office beginning today.

The power outage on campus October 30 was no deterrent to Rene Hinojosa of Robstown when he came to enroll at the University. Gwen Berry, admissions specialist, held a portable lantern for Hinojosa, while he completed his application for admission. Hinojosa and his friends, Linda and Donna Espinoza, looking on, are currently students at Del Mar College and plan to transfer into the CCSU criminal justice program.

Science Club hosts photo contest

by Dennis Rocha
Science Club President

The Science Club is sponsoring a wildlife photography contest as a new and exciting fund raiser designed to attract all CCSU amateur photographers.

Students, faculty and staff are invited to submit, with a $10 entry fee, up to two color or black & white photographs depicting a wildlife scene in either an animal or plant category. As an incentive for contestants, first place winners from each category will be eligible to have their winning photographs placed on permanent display in the Center for the Sciences (CS) building as part of an increasing collection from future contests. Other non-cash prizes, either donated or purchased from entry fees, will be awarded to honorable mention winners.

Money raised from entry fees will also be used to help fund Science Club projects such as the CS aquarium maintenance, tree plantings for wildlife enhancement and beautification and renovation of the CCSU marine science research cabin on the Laguna Madre. Judging for the event will occur in the Spring 1992 semester following the March 12 contest deadline and will be performed by a committee assembled from representatives of the arts, sciences and the Science Club. Entry forms, along with contest rules and details, are now being distributed by Science Club members or can be picked up in CS 130.

This event is a great opportunity for photographers, naturalists, or vacation buffs to not only show off their work in a public display but also help support the Science Club in its continuing goal toward the advancement of science at CCSU.

Students' early registration bills are tagged by the finance office and will not be purged from the system.

These students' early registration bills are tagged by the finance office and will not be purged from the system.

For the convenience of those students who chose to register early for Spring classes, a special Add/Drop day, Jan. 7, will be set aside, allowing adds and drops from noon to 7 p.m. in the Field House. These students will no longer have to contend with the lines during regular registration just to change a course.

Regular registration for Spring 1992 will be held Jan. 8-9. No further add/drops will be allowed until late registration, which begins Jan. 13, 1992.

Intramurals Roundup

Pickleball

increased by 10 to 15 percent, formula funding would increase by between $750,000 and $1 million.

"We need a full court press," Furgason said. "An initiative by each and every one of us to increase student enrollment. The gains are tremendous."

Furgason detailed the overall budget with Senators, outlining planned dissemination of the $2.6 million special item allocations.

Questions from Senators that followed included inquiries about the formula funding transition model proposed by CCSU to phase upper level funding into the University's budget over a 10-year period. The President reassured the Senators that he was working on the item, saying that he was slated to be in Austin the following week to meet with the Coordinating Board on the issue.

He added that he was recently appointed chair of a Coordinating Board Committee charged with investigation of new CB requirements on fiscal guarantees by a university for new or requested programs.

It was announced that Dr. Furgason will participate in his second "Fireside Chat" on November 21, in the Student Center Lounge from 2 to 4 p.m. The meeting is open to the entire campus community.

In other Faculty Senate business, a resolution drafted by Dr. Sam Logsdon regarding precedent-setting Senate action during the formative-years of the Senate was approved by members.

Dr. Miriam Wagenschein led fellow Senators through an explanation on a proposal to clarify the intent of the Faculty Senate with regard to University committees. Lengthy discussion followed about the scope of the Committee on Committees and the method of committee member selection for various standing (reporting) University committees.

Senators agreed to a revision of the proposed policy that would strike the need for multiple nominations to committee vacancies to be forwarded to the Committee on Committees before being forwarded by that Committee to the responsible administrative officer of the respective college.

Senators further agreed to make such nominations at the end of the spring semester in order that representatives can be online at the start of the fall term.

A proposal to make the University Core Curriculum Committee a standing (reporting) committee also passed among the membership.

In other business, Dr. Charles Irwin, professor of management, was introduced as a new Faculty Senator, filling the vacancy left by Dr. John Carpenter, who resigned due to his new assignment as Assistant Dean in the College of Business Administration. And, Dr. Pam Stokes was selected as the Academic Affairs Committee's representative to the Dean of Students search committee.
